Resources

To the teachers at Talbert, especially Amy Junge, Heather Harrison, and Donna Fraga, who generously shared their ideas; to Beth Fockler at Fulton for mentoring me early on; and to friend/fellow teacher Jennifer Mendoza.

To my principal, Cathie Abdel, who has always made me feel like a million bucks; to Fountain Valley School District Superintendent Rosemarie Eadie who has been an incredible source of encouragement over the years.

To my tutoring students Alexis Coco, Mark Gale, Mike Gale, Kate Gasparro, Matt Gasparro, Anthony Ho, Jacqueline Ho, Joshua Lim, Leslie Lim, Sarah Lo, Tiffany Lo, Jason Mar, Sean Myers, Ryan Nguyen, Jeffrey Wang, and Justine Wang.

Thank you, Donna, for cheering me on. Thank you Mom for watching the kids so many times while I worked on the book with Dad. Thank you, thank you, thank you, Dad. Without your countless hours invested in the typesetting, editing, and design of this book, it never would have happened. I owe you BIG TIME, Nudgy!

To Myles for knowing just when Mommy needed you to take a nap, to Sydney who brings so much love and joy to my life, and to my husband, Jason, who has always supported me. I'm blessed to have a partner like you.

Introduction

During my first year as a middle school teacher, I quickly discovered that my students had wonderful ideas for their writing, but struggled to express them clearly and descriptively. They recognized strong and specific words, but couldn't always retrieve them on their own, and using a thesaurus was time-consuming. What they needed was a fast and easy way to find the “right” words for their writing.

I developed a list of action verbs, which led to a list of more specific movement words. Other word lists followed, and I soon had enough lists to make a small booklet for each student to use. I was thrilled with the remarkable improvements in their writing and in their confidence. They were so proud of their ability to choose their words so precisely and powerfully.

The booklet circulated to other teachers, and it wasn't long before almost every English teacher at my school was using the booklet. Within a year's time, the booklet began showing up with the students I privately tutored—students who attended other schools in my district. Apparently, I wasn't the only teacher searching for ways to empower students with strong, specific words. I'm excited to share the culmination of that effort with you in this book.

Banish Boring Words—a collection of word lists containing dozens of options for frequently used words and phrases—supports all types of writing. In some ways, it is like a condensed thesaurus. The purpose of this book is to provide students with shortcuts to finding descriptive words that will enable them to write with greater clarity and sophistication. It is my hope that this book helps students achieve their full potential as writers.

How to Use This Book

The word lists are arranged by topics so students can flip quickly between related pages, and example sentences are provided under the title of each word list to demonstrate how each page should be used.

Some suggestions for using this book flexibly in the classroom include:

- Making copies of the word lists for each student to use during independent writing time.
- Providing copies of the word lists for groups of students to use as a resource during writing workshop.
- Photocopying one word list or section at a time when introducing a new lesson. For example, you might use the Character Traits list (page 36) during a lesson on character development.
- Copying word lists for vocabulary-building exercises, including games and test preparation for English language learners.
- Making poster-size copies of the lists to serve as “word walls” in the classroom—visible and accessible resources for interesting words.
